Blessings to Bodacious

Dear brothers and sisters,
 Imagine planting a vineyard. You carefully prepare the soil, plant the best vines, build a fence around them, provide water and protection, and patiently wait for the harvest. After all that work, you naturally expect good fruit. God has done it. The 1st reading says, "I expected good grapes, but it produced wild grapes."

Jesus uses the same image. A landowner carefully prepares his vineyard and entrusts it to tenants. When harvest time comes, he expects them to give him the fruit. Instead, they reject his servants and finally even kill his son. The vineyard represents God's people - and ultimately each one of us.

We are Blessed: God has given us so much: life, family, faith, talents, opportunities, friends, work, health, His Church, and above all, His Son, Jesus Christ. Sometimes we focus so much on what we lack than what we already have. Gratitude begins when we recognize them.

Blessings are Fruits: God does not bless us simply to keep His gifts for ourselves. A vineyard exists to produce fruit. God gives us love so we can love, forgives so we can forgive, and faith so we can witness.

Fruits are Bodacious: The fruits God desires are not grapes or apples, but love, forgiveness, kindness, patience, mercy, and generosity. Our faith becomes beautiful when it produces good fruit in our daily lives.

St. Paul reminds us to fill our minds with what is true, honorable, just, pure, lovely, and worthy of praise. What fills our minds eventually appears in our words and actions. When we fill our hearts with God's Word, prayer, and gratitude, our lives produce good fruit. The secret ingredient is gratitude. God blesses us > We recognize His blessings > We become grateful > We share our blessings > Our lives produce good fruit. -Msgr. Xavier

POWER OF WORDS

This week, our teens explored just how much power our words can have. We talked about the voices we listen to, the things we say to ourselves and to others, and how easily words can shape the way someone sees themselves. Most importantly, we were reminded that our identity isn't determined by what other people say about us. It comes from God.

WHAT NUMBER AM I?

We ended the night with a challenge! Each teen had a random number stuck to their forehead without knowing what it was. To figure it out, they had to ask each other questions with numerical answers, things like "Could I eat this many pizzas?" or "Could I do this many push-ups?" They had to get creative, ask good questions, and use each other's answers to narrow down their number.

It was a fun way to end a night all about the power of words, and how the questions we ask and the things we say can shape what we understand.

De las bendiciones a los frutos

Queridos hermanos y hermanas:

Imaginen plantar un viñedo: preparan la tierra, cuidan las vides y esperan con paciencia una cosecha de buenos frutos. Dios hizo lo mismo con nosotros, como recuerda la primera lectura: «Esperaba buenas uvas, pero produjo uvas silvestres».

Jesús retoma esta imagen: un propietario confía su viñedo a unos agricultores que, al llegar la cosecha, rechazan a sus siervos y matan a su hijo. El viñedo representa al pueblo de Dios y a cada uno de nosotros.

Somos profundamente bendecidos. Dios nos ha dado vida, familia, fe, talentos, salud, su Iglesia y a su Hijo Jesucristo. A menudo nos enfocamos en lo que falta y olvidamos lo que tenemos; la gratitud nace al reconocer sus dones.

Las bendiciones son frutos: Dios no nos bendice simplemente para que guardemos sus dones para nosotros mismos. Un viñedo existe para producir fruto. Dios nos da amor para que podamos amar, nos perdona para que podamos perdonar y nos da fe para que podamos dar testimonio. Los frutos que Dios desea son amor, perdón, bondad, paciencia, misericordia y generosidad.

Frutos deliciosos: Los frutos que Dios desea no son uvas ni manzanas, sino amor, perdón, bondad, paciencia, misericordia y generosidad. Nuestra fe se vuelve hermosa cuando produce buenos frutos en nuestra vida cotidiana.

San Pablo nos invita a llenar la mente de lo verdadero, noble, justo, puro y amable, pues lo que habita en el corazón se refleja en nuestros actos.

El camino es sencillo: Dios nos bendice > Reconocemos sus bendiciones > Nos sentimos agradecidos > Compartimos nuestras bendiciones > Nuestra vida produce buenos frutos.

Bendiciones! - Mons. Xavier
